

28th BP Gas Alpine Balloon Trophy

Europa-Sportregion Zell am See – Kaprun, Salzburg, Austria

Saturday, January 27th until Saturday, February 3rd, 2007

“Up, up in the sky!”

Bad Voeslau, October 2006

Dear Balloon Pilots!

„Up, up in the sky!“ This is the motto of the 28th BP Gas Alpine Balloon Trophy 2007, which takes place in the famous “Europa-Sportregion Zell am See – Kaprun”. Thus the BP Gas Trophy starts – with support of BP Gas Austria, the devoted main sponsor, and competition director Heidrun Prosch – in a new dimension: Apart from the sporty challenges such as long-distance balloon race, a course set with predefined targets or the exciting “Watch Grab” in a very attractive alpine environment, lures now the beautiful landscape of the Pinzgau in the centre of Salzburg Province.

The “Europa-Sportregion Zell am See – Kaprun” is one of the most important holiday destinations in all of Austria and belongs to the most perfect holiday locations on an international scale. Various leisure activities guarantee an attractive touristic social programme to the BP Gas Trophy. The local mountains, Kitzsteinhorn and Schmittenhöhe with about 132 kilometres of pistes are ideal for skiers and snowboarders. Moreover, visitors of the region meet an abundance of more alternatives, for example cross-country skiing, tobogganing, and hiking – that’s pure recreation and winter fun. The hotels and the top gastronomy in Salzburg are famous for high level services and quality – you will certainly have a nice time!

Enclosed you find the entry form as well as further information for pilots. To arouse your interest even more, please take a look at www.europasportregion.info

I look forward to seeing you and leave you for now, with “Soft landings!”

Gert Scholz
Team Polar

For further information please contact me at any time: phone: +43 2252 463 91 or mobile: +43 664 100 39 27 e-mail: gert.scholz@teampolar.at